COMING BACK.

In a recent issue of McClue's Magazine there appears one of the most striking, hopeful and encouraging articles from the pen of a returned soldier, we have so far had the pleasure of reading. The article is written by Coningsby Dawson, who fought through the entire war with the Canadian Field Artillery, and is entitled "We're Coming Back to You."

In dealing with conditions experienced at the front the writer points out in very choice language, the great change those experiences have made in the lives, ideals and thoughts of the returned boys. "We have learned at the front," says Mr. Dawson, "that it is the spirit that counts. We used to think that it was money, social position, birth, good looks, character, manner, power, success—anything and everything but the spirit. 'Over There' we have seen men who, judged by our old standards, were of no account, measure up to the sternest tests of sacrifice. They were the kind of men who looked aristocrats; some were alum-bred, some were jailbirds, some were failures in every department of endeavor. There were the shy men and the men who had dreamed their nobility at city desks, doing tasks which were not noble. Then came the great hour when Christ, however humble and wherever found, heard the call to man the barricades of freedom. What we had been content to matter after we had arrived at the trenches."

"The writer speaks of the new religion learned in the trenches, where the war God of the Hun was seen as 'a monstrous creation of limitless cruelty, fashioned out of human lust and the human desire for strength,' on the one side, and the spirit and mercy of the Nazarene on the other. "It was for Him that we were fighting and it was on Him that our gaze rested when the breaking point had almost arrived."

"He speaks of the coming back of the boys and the part that will be theirs to play in the great battles of life, and in closing he says: "We are coming back to man, the trenches of a kinder social order and to follow the barrage across No Man's Land in pursuit of a new heaven and a new earth. Our souls will still be clad in khaki; we shall be a brotherhood for righteousness. That same brotherhood will exist as well in France and Great Britain. In our brotherhood there will be millions of soldiers."

"For the War is not ended. When peace is signed on the western front, the War will only have begun. We are not going to slip back into what we were. We have learned lessons of sharing which we cannot forget. God has fought for us and stood shoulder to shoulder beside us in the bodies of pals who are dead. We are coming back to you as knight-errant of a brave and laughing idealism, to smite injustice. We have tried to die for you, and death has been denied us, we are going to live for you now, that the future may be better. We went away boys; we are coming back white men. We will live so that you may write about each of us, cobblers, linens, apothecary, millinaire, 'Here lies a very gallant gentleman.' "This is how and why we are coming back."

KEEP CLOSE IN.

The council acted wisely at the meeting last Monday when in discussing the request from the Dauntless Manufacturing Company to purchase outside property, its members expressed themselves as opposed to encouraging the development of outlying sections so long as there was ample room for development in the old town site.

We are quite in favor of extending every encouragement and inducement to manufacturers, and especially one of the lamentations which the Dauntless Company will eventually develop land, but with all the available land now reached with our water system and other conveniences, it would be foolish to gain make the mistake of day: gone by and put the town to an additional expense and responsibility in extending conveniences to scattered districts.

The town already has considerable property on its hands, near to the present building operations of this company, which we have no doubt would serve the purpose of the new company as well as the land in question, and which can be got by paying the tax arrearsages on it.

FAIR PRICE COMMITTEE.

The finding of the Local Fair Price Committee as presented to the council at its regular meeting last Monday, is very much along the lines mentioned in these columns several months ago. On that occasion we expressed the opinion that the government was exerting its energies in the wrong direction, and that if it wanted to do anything worth while to reduce the high cost of living it would have to carry its investigations higher up.

The local committee appears to have gone thoroughly into the investigation of any complaints registered with them and their report shows they have looked their work in a fair and impartial manner and that they have given due consideration to both sides.

C. W. Cross and some of his colleagues in the legislature are stirring up quite a fuss at this season because Mr. Cross was asked by the premier to send in his resignation as Attorney-General. Why this simple bit of business should take up so much of the legislature's time it is hard to understand. If the premier and his colleagues did not want Mr. Cross in the cabinet they had a perfect right to ask for his resignation. Such things have happened hundreds of times before and scarcely caused a passing thought. And opposing Premier Stewart, out of the millions of his hearers, did after Mr. Cross another job, what difference does that make? So far as we can see it looks very much as though Mr. Cross would like to bite the hand that would have fed him.

The teachers in the higher grades at our school are deserving of great praise for the very evident interest they are taking in the pupils in those grades. The starting of a literary society and club and the little social evenings which go with them are very much to be desired and are a very important part of a child's training and education. The debates, address and carrying on of the business by the pupils all furnish opportunity for development which will better fit them for embarking on the affairs of life later on.

The provincial government has decided to abolish the police commission and take over the management of the provincial police force. This is as it should be. There is too much of this commission form of government now-a-days and it is only done as a means of shifting responsibility in cases of knotty problems. It is to manage such affairs we elect members of parliament who are directly responsible to the people whom they represent.

July list, we do not need to worry much about that daylight saving stunt. Moonshining will no doubt fill the bill.

The German press doesn't appear to like the idea of a League of Nations. That's about one of the surest proofs we can get that it is all right.

German Ships for International Police

The Daily Chronicle reports in a Paris dispatch that the suggestion that the German fleet be sunk in the Atlantic has aroused a storm of criticism in the French press. The French think their government has a particular right to a number of these vessels by way of compensation for their naval losses. Major David Davies, chairman of the league of nations union, according to the Chronicle dispatch, suggests that the German fleet should be handed over to the league of nations as the nucleus of an international police force could be relied upon to enforce the decisions of the league.

Great Britain's War

Savings Campaign

War Savings Certificates were first placed on sale in Great Britain on February 22, 1916. Between that date and January 18, 1919, inclusive, 237,090,200 certificates were sold. These represented $1,486,161,000. Of this amount the redemption amount is probably a little over 4 per cent. The sales by years are as follows: 1916 certificates sold $4,224,000; 1917 certificates sold $2,935,200; 1918 certificates sold $40,617,968; 1919, which means that during the 68 weeks of the issue the average weekly sales amounted to $120,000,000.

It should be borne in mind that while these millions of War Savings Certificates were being sold, the sale of National War Bonds reached the huge total of $8,256,688,670. The sale of these bonds began on October 1, 1917, and ended on January 18, 1919, which means that during the 68 weeks of the issue the average weekly sales amounted to $120,000,000.

At first the sale of War Savings Certificates was attended with disappointing results, possibly because it was held back by cumbersome restrictions. It was not until these were removed in June of 1916, that appreciable results were secured. Even though the war feeling has subsided the sale of certificates continues to be very brisk, 3,428,191 having been sold during the week ending January 18, which average, if maintained, would double the sales for 1917.

Hail Insurance

In the Legislature

Whether it is advisable to permit mutual hail insurance societies to be operated in Alberta in competition with the government's municipal hail insurance plan was the occasion of considerable discussion in the private bills committee of the legislature Monday morning. The bill which brought about the discussion was that incorporating the "Fifty-Fifty Mutual Hail Insurance Society" introduced by H. B. Atkins, member from Didsbury, one of the members of the proposed society.

James Weir, Non-Partisan, Nanton, objected strenuously to the bill on the ground that the mutual society would come into direct competition with the government's scheme. The government municipal hail insurance plan will be voted on in the districts south of the Saskatchewan river on Feb. 27 next, and Mr. Weir contended that the legislature, by approving the incorporation of a mutual society in competition with that plan, was putting the government in a curious position.

Mr. Atkins, of Didsbury, the spokesman for the bill, and Hon. A. G. MacKay, however, took the view that the society offered no more competition than the private companies suffer. It was pointed out that whereas, under the government scheme, farmers can insure only up to $8 an acre, under the provisions of the mutual society they can take an additional insurance up to $20 an acre, so there was nothing to prevent farmers to insure in both.

A motion by Mr. Weir to strike the enacting clause of the bill was lost, Mr. Weir being the only member of the committee voting for it.

Ontario Sends Aliens To Western Provinces

The aliens in the cities of eastern Canada are being sent to the west by the government. Dr. W. A. Ridd, superintendent of the trades and labor branch of the Ontario government, announced to a deputation that waited on him. He said the government was working out a plan by which all enemy aliens would be placed under government supervision, would be employed at work allotted to them by the government, and would be controlled and paid such wages as the government decided upon.

The government "will appoint officials to look after them. The foreigners, he said, would be employed principally in the west in digging work and in building highways and railroads. Some have already been dispatched there. All foreigners in various parts of the country will be under government supervision until the weather permits work to be started, when they will be sent west and kept in camps at the scene of their labors."

CANNED WHALE'S

NOW ON THE MARKET

The first considerable consignment of whale meat to eastern Canadian cities arrived in Montreal and Toronto this week. The product is in a canned form, resembling "canned meat" more than fish, and goes under names familiar to the butcher rather than to the fishmonger.

Whale for the Canadian trade is caught in the Pacific, just off Vancouver Island, and is caught under modern hygienic conditions.

BAYARIAN PREMIER

SHOT BY ASSASSIN

Kurt Eisner, the premier of Bavaria, has been shot and killed. The premier was killed by Lieut. Count Aroo Valley, according to a Munich dispatch received in Amsterdam. The count was wounded severely by a guard and is reported to be dying.

Kurt Eisner, who served the reins of government in Bavaria after the deposition of the royal family in November, was a Socialist of the moderate type, and recent reports from Munich have said that he was heading a Spartan movement against the moderate and conservative factions of Bavaria.

U.S. Ambassador Gives Views on Conventions

A news report from Boston says: Ambassador Francis, home from Russia for the first time in two years, and several conferences with President Wilson, while coming over to the George Washington, and made several recommendations for action on the part of the allied governments for meeting the Bolshevik menace and restoring Russia to the family of nations. Mr. Francis probably will discuss them later, when he appears before one of the congressional committees.

"A reign of terror instituted by the Bolshevik, with the purpose of maintaining themselves in power, is prevailing in Central and Northern Russia," said the ambassador. "The outrages they have committed are incredible. I think it impossible to restore peace in Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia. In fact, with Germany practically unimpaired industrially, I am persuaded that if a peace is negotiated with Bolshevik rule continuing, Germany in 20 years or a decade will be stronger than she was at the beginning of the war. She is familiar with the Russian character, and for a generation has been studying it to influence it. If this results, Germany, instead of having been defeated, will have gained a victory."

Police in Search of Bavarian Prince

Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who was commander of the northern sector on the western front in the final stages of the war, is reported to have been at the head of a monarchist plot that resulted in the assassination of Premier Eisner. The ex-crown prince is being sought by the police.

It is recalled that the last words of Rupprecht when he was leaving Belgium to escape into Holland were: "I do not recognize the Bavarian republic. I renounce and abhor it."

Annual Report Seed Growers' Association

The fourteenth annual report of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association covering the work of that organization for the year ending March 31st, 1918, has just been published and is now available for distribution to those who apply for same to the publication branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. The report opens with a brief statement regarding the origin, constitution, aims and methods of the association. This is followed by a list of officers and active members.

Manitoba to Prohibit Gambling in Grain

Prohibition of gambling on the margins on the grain exchange is proposed in a measure to be introduced shortly in the Manitoba legislature by W. R. Woods, member for Beautiful Plains, and secretary of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association.

Former attempts to pass similar legislation in the provincial house met with opposition and defeat.

The new prohibitory measure has been framed with a view to compensating somewhat on the previous bill, but it will effect and equally prevent if it becomes law, legalized dealing in "paper" certificates.

Propose Changes in The Dower Act

The government is inviting any person who has any views to express on the question of dower legislation to come to the meeting of the legal bills committee which will be held on Wednesday morning, March 5, when all will be heard. This was the statement made by the attorney-general Monday afternoon, and on that condition the bill received its second reading. It is not customary for a government bill to be sent to a committee but there is so much interest in this legislation that it was thought best to have all parties heard.

The present act, passed two years ago, provides that a woman gets a dower of one-third part of the property of her husband.

The amended legislation which is before the houses very greatly limits the right of the wife, it provides in case the husband, getting the loan or making the sale, makes statutory declaration that he has no wife, that, in case a wife later appears she has no claim and the mortgage or sale stands.

According to press reports of the discussion on the Act at bar it is proposed for the loan company or the purchaser at the expense of the wife.

Went B. C. Divided Into Two Provinces

With a full list of delegates present, the Associated Boards of Trade of eastern British Columbia, Friday, unanimously passed a resolution asking for the separation of British Columbia into two provinces, with the Cascade mountains as a dividing line, declaring that proper recognition of the interests of the eastern part of the province cannot be obtained from the coast.

A further resolution was passed advocating that if Doukhobors are found to be violating Dominion enactments, that they be dealt with as undesirable citizens; and another that all machinery not obtainable from Canadian manufacturers be admitted duty free.

Urge Completion of Weyburn Line

Sir Henry Drayton, of the railway commission, sitting with Dr. J. C. Rutherford, said that he would urge the C. P. R. to complete the Weyburn Lethbridge line to give farmers in the country southeast of Lethbridge proper and long-needed railway facilities. He said the line should be finished.

Dr. J. G. Rutherford, of the board of railway commissioners, speaking at a luncheon of business men in Lethbridge Monday, suggested that the organized farmers of the west, being of the nature of both capitalists and laborers, should act as arbitrators between the extreme of capital and labor, to direct a crisis which he believes threatens.

Bavarian Revenge Death of Premier

The assassination of Premier Eisner of Bavaria, has caused quite an eruption in the people of that country. Ministerial Councillor Jahries has been killed and several officers of the war office gravely wounded in the rioting.

Count Arcovalley, the young student who shot and killed Premier Eisner, was lynched by an angry crowd.

Prices Must Fall to Get European Trade

W. W. Swanson, professor of economics in the University of Saskatchewan, in dealing with economic conditions and future prospects as they affect Canada says:

"The future level of prices presents a problem of fundamental importance. The prosperity of the nation depends upon the full employment of its capital and labor, and this in turn depends upon the price received for manufactures and the output of agriculture. It is certain that neither Canada nor the United States can replace the export trade created by war conditions by exports of manufactured goods and raw materials for the rehabilitation of Europe unless as France, Belgium, Poland and the other devastated nations are compelled to pay war prices for the commodities they require, only essential works will be undertaken by them, and much permanent construction will be held over for a later period, when the purchasing power of money shall have been increased. In general, the money side of the price problem is relegated to the background or ignored altogether."

This is the result of the recent proceedings taken by James Hays, unsuccessful candidate for election as a member in Ward 4 at the recent election. Mr. Hays is again running and is being opposed by Capt. W. H. Williams who has just returned from the front.

The sounding of the fire alarm last Sunday evening about 7:30 caused quite a commotion around town and in the churches. A fire in the hen house adjoining the old Crown Lumber yard buildings was the cause of the alarm. The house on this property is occupied by M. Zeigler and the hen house and stables are used by them. It appears that there is a small gas stove in the building and it is supposed the fire started from it. The flames had gained considerable headway before noticed and as the hen house is surrounded by frame buildings connected up on all sides the wonder is that it was put out before doing more damage. The services of the brigade were not required as the early arrival did good work with pails of water and snow. The damage done was very slight.
